Dear Coworkers:

A WARM WELCOME TO TENA

We are pleased to announce that Miss Tena Bishop is a new appointee to the Federal Extension staff as a member of our Division. Tena will concern herself primarily with leadership in home economics programs for boys and girls and for YMW. She is so well known and so highly regarded for her work in Massachusetts, and on various national assignments, that we feel certain her services will be immediately in demand to strengthen State programs.

We are delighted to be able to add a second woman to our youth team in the Federal office. It means that Fern Shipley can now devote more of her time to the assignment in the Western region.

MISS UNIVERSE, A 4-H GIRL

Miriam Stevenson, of Fairfield, S.C., recently chosen as Miss Universe, has an 8-year record as an outstanding 4-H'er. Her dairy projects were recognized for top quality. When she was ready for college, she sold three of her 4-H animals in order to register at Lander College, where she is majoring in home economics. Recently, she announced that she would forfeit a movie contract in order to complete that college course.

Look for Miriam's picture on the cover of the October issue of National 4-H Club News.

4-H IMPORTANT IN ANOTHER CAREER

Earl L. Butz, newly appointed Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, from Indiana, first saw the Department when he attended the National 4-H Club Camp in 1930. More than that, it was at this camp that he met a charming North Carolina camper who later became Mrs. Butz.

YOUR EXPRESSION OF NEEDS FOR FEDERAL STAFF ASSISTANCE

Administrator Ferguson has written to State directors relative to travel requests for Federal Extension staff members. We urge you to be prepared with suggestions to give to your director. Our travel plans must be made carefully, and we give very serious consideration and high priority to the needs that are expressed by the States, under the plan established.

We suggest you also consider the contributions that others on the Federal Extension staff can make to your 4-H and YMW programs. No doubt, you would want to consult with others on your State staff who may be requesting those persons for extension work with adults.

THAT IMPORTANT DATE OF NOVEMBER 13-- NATIONAL 4-H ACHIEVEMENT DAY

We feel sure that you have important plans for National 4-H Achievement Day already in the making. Our purpose here is to alert you to some of the arrangements that will supplement the ones you make. National 4-H Achievement Day is really a "home folks" kind of observance, most important at community and county levels. The Club Congress, following soon after, is necessarily focused on telling the stories of outstanding accomplishments of the winner group.

These arrangements are now in the mill:

1. A statement by the Secretary of Agriculture. (Copies enclosed.)
2. A fact sheet for information use.
3. National radio and television contacts. Joe Tonkin is working hard on this. You will have more specific information later.
4. Mat service by the National Committee, plus other fine support.
5. Manual of suggestions. We still have a limited supply of Aids for Observance of National 4-H Events. This is intended for use by county and State staff members.

You have been noticing in National 4-H Club News the many fine suggestions for window and other displays.

Maybe the following is a suggestion for you. We have recently had some States tell us that they think in terms of Achievement Month, or at least a period of time during which local clubs could schedule their appropriate observances, as convenient to them. "4-H Harvest Honor Days" has been suggested as an appropriate name for such an operation.

PROGRESS TOWARDS THEME

Yes, we're working on a theme! By way of report: Mylo tabulated your suggestions, over 80 of them. Still, it looked as though we needed to do some refining. Now six possible themes are still in the finals. A letter has gone to the Extension Subcommittee on 4-H Club Work listing those six and asking for a vote. You'll be hearing the results.

DATES FOR 1955

The dates for 1955 are printed in the manual Aids for Observance of National Club Events. We have all talked about several possible changes in dates, but nothing specific has come into focus. May we list the dates, as they stand, for next year:

National 4-H Club Week	March 5 to 13
National 4-H Sunday	May 15
National 4-H Club Camp	June 15 to 22
National 4-H Achievement Day	November 12
National 4-H Club Congress	November 27 to December 1

4-H CLUB AND YMW WORK IN MARKETING

Much attention and thought are currently being given to the important area of 4-H and YMW work in marketing. Director Bevan's marketing committee has invited this office to participate in a special meeting in Wisconsin in early October. Mylo Downey will take this assignment. After the meeting, information will be sent to you that combines the best ideas and suggestions we can make available. George Foster has headed a task force that has already made a great deal of progress with it.

THE FARM UNIT APPROACH

As with marketing, progress is being made on assembling material on the farm unit approach that may challenge our thinking.

Have you read the editorial comment in the August issue of Country Gentleman, concerning "New On-the-Farm Services"? May we quote the following interesting reference to farm and home development service of Extension:

"Young farmers, just starting out, especially feel the pressure of these conditions. The new service can be a lot of help to them. In fact, in Wisconsin the Extension staff is thinking of using the added funds for a program of complete farm and home planning in 34 counties, primarily for young couples, or those just starting to farm."

A very important Agriculture Committee of the National Planning Association has also pointed out some important facts. They call to our attention that the million young families who have begun farming since the Second World War face an especially difficult economic plight in a period of high costs, falling prices, and tightening credit. The major needs of these young farmers are for more adequate intermediate credit and for better training in management of farms. In the latter category, the committee recommends that private and public farm advisory services provide beginning farmers with more effective educational assistance in management techniques, placing emphasis on self-help. The report of the National Planning Association is available at a nominal cost. Ask for NPA Planning Pamphlet No. 88. Address: 1606 New Hampshire Avenue NW., Washington 9, D. C.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE SPOTLIGHTS RURAL EDUCATION PROBLEMS

Several of the staff shared in the National Conference on Rural Education held recently under the auspices of the National Education Association, assisted by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Problems covered by the delegates ranged from the zooming school-age population of rural towns and villages to the need for all people as citizens to enter into the solutions of educational problems. Several of the conference groups strongly endorsed the need for cooperation between school and nonschool services. Stress was also placed on the need for educational work with farm people along business lines growing out of the increased capital investments and cash costs of farming.

Frances Scudder, J. E. Crosby, Jr. and Ed Aiton worked closely with Howard Dawson, director of rural service of NEA, and his staff in arranging three divisional meetings on the general subject of the educational programs and agencies serving rural people.

A copy of Secretary Benson's speech before the National Conference on Rural Education is enclosed.

WESTERN STATES ARE STILL LOOKING FOR ANSWERS ON REENROLLMENT

States in the Western region, including Hawaii, are getting started with the fourth phase of a study which began when they tried to face up to the problem of why more first-year members do not reenroll. Much enlightening information has already come out of the study.

The current phase is focused on opportunities provided for local leaders in county leader training meetings. Over a period of a year, certain selected cooperating counties will check on the opportunity that each individual leader has had for training.

4-H CLUB PARTICIPATION IN YOUNG OUTDOOR AMERICANS CONFERENCE

Administrator Ferguson's letter to directors of extension, dated September 10, carried the following item about the Young Outdoor Americans Conference.

"4-H participation in the Young Outdoor Americans Conference for the second year has been endorsed by the Extension Subcommittee on 4-H Club Work. 4-H Clubs and other youth organizations are cooperating with the Izaak Walton League of America, Inc., for a youth get-together on conservation, natural resources, and needs. It will be held in Chicago, March 30-31, 1955. The purpose of the conference is to give young people an opportunity to share ideas and to discuss ways in which they can team up to assist in conserving the Nation's human and natural resources.

"This is to alert you to two items regarding the conference on which the league has informed us. The Governor's Committees are being set up in most of the States again this year to give guidance to this activity. You may be asked to name a representative to this committee in your State.

"Two youth delegates to the conference will be chosen from each State. Half of the delegates will be selected at meetings of the Governor's Committees. The remainder will be picked by the three youth groups participating -- 4-H Clubs, Boy Scouts, and FFA. Selection will be on the basis of a rotation system that will permit each organization to be represented from each State over a period of years. As soon as we are informed of the 16 States asked to send 4-H delegates, we will notify those concerned. In addition, we expect that 4-H'ers will be named by Governor's Committees in a number of other States as well."

We have since received a letter from the League suggesting that the following States select a 4-H delegate to receive an expense paid trip in addition to the delegate chosen by the Governor's Committee which may also be a 4-H'er.

Arizona	Maine	North Carolina
California	Michigan	Pennsylvania
Delaware	Montana	South Carolina
Illinois	Nebraska	Utah
Kansas	New Jersey	Wisconsin
		Wyoming

(Last year, delegates came from 16 other States.)

A number of States have already reported a contact from the Governor's Committee regarding a State meeting. No doubt, others will be called soon.

In selecting 4-H delegates to attend the State meeting, when called, it is suggested that they have an outstanding record in conservation work and be between 15 and 19 years of age, inclusive. Some States are inviting one youth delegate from each group; others are inviting two. Obviously, it is important that our very best 4-H'ers should be selected in order to represent 4-H in the best possible way. We believe this activity, though not perfectly designed yet, is worthy of our support because of the importance of conservation in 4-H.

WORKSHOP FOR REGIONAL SCHOOL INSTRUCTORS

Eight State and Federal 4-H staff members participated in the recent workshop at Purdue University. Their assignment was to plan for strengthening the Extension youth courses at regional summer schools.

A CITIZENSHIP TRAINING OPPORTUNITY

On Armistice Day, November 11, special ceremonies will mark the entry of some 50,000 of America's foreign-born into United States citizenship. Across the Nation, color and pomp will mark the event. Perhaps this observance might suggest opportunities for 4-H Clubs and similar groups, to make note of citizenship opportunities and responsibilities.

FLOATS, EXHIBITS, AND WINDOW DISPLAYS

What are the needs in the audiovisual area of floats, exhibits, and window displays in 4-H Club work? Are they being met satisfactorily at present? If not, what do you suggest?

A group of folks explored this question during the National Camp. They asked us to survey the States in order to see what materials are now available and what additional needs existed. Your comments and any examples of materials would be welcomed.

USE OF 4-H MOVIES

Reports were shared with us recently on the number who view some of the popular films. We were amazed at the total. For instance, in the 12-month period ending August 31, 7,704,377 persons viewed The Fifth H. There were also 156 telecasts--where it is estimated something like 50,000 saw each telecast. 4-H Headlines is another popular film. Here, the number of viewers was 7,256,314, plus 142 telecasts. This certainly accomplishes a great deal towards telling the 4-H story.

NATIONAL BIBLE WEEK KIT

We have suggested that the Laymen's National Committee send you the kit of materials for National Bible Week, assembled for the observance, October 18 to 24. We felt this was an endeavor worthy of calling to your attention.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO REPORT

Several of the States are working out plans whereby 4-H delegates to national meetings, like the American Institute of Cooperation, have an opportunity to report their experiences. Montana is one State that has attacked this in a methodical way. Their plan also includes a special report. The delegates and chaperon agree as to the date this report is due. It shows to what extent the delegates have talked to organized groups, made radio tapes, or written articles for papers.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE AT ATLANTA

4-H Club plans and methods are to have consideration at the Regional Extension State Leader Conference, scheduled to be held November 1 to 5 in Atlanta, Ga. Negro extension workers of about 17 States will participate. The timely topic of Strengthening and Expanding 4-H Club Work Through Farm and Home Development will be presented by Director Bill Sutton. The committee members responsible for the planning of the conference are C. A. Sheffield, John Mitchell, Mena Hogan, and George Foster, who will represent our Division at the conference.

TWO NATION'S TOUR BY CANADIAN 4-H'ERS

A selected group of young farm people from Ontario, Canada, are participating in a tour which includes their own capital at Ottawa, United Nations headquarters in New York City, and Washington, D. C. The delegates were selected on the same basis as for National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. That means qualified in 4-H Club work as well as junior farmer work.

INDIANA TOUR TO THE NATION'S CAPITAL

A group of 32 Indiana members toured Washington and other eastern historic points the week of September 13. They were accompanied by Mary Frances Smith and John Barning. The trip to Washington is an annual event on the Indiana program, is highly prized by the members, and is welcomed by us.

FOURTEEN STATES OVER THE TOP

Share-and-Care Quotas have been completed by 14 States, as of August 31. Several other States will shortly be in line for congratulations for going over the top.

HELP ON SAVINGS BOND PROGRAM

The U. S. Savings Bond Division of the Treasury Department is asking for the cooperation of 4-H Clubs, as well as other Extension groups. We are sure you are aware of this effort and have done much in years past on it. You will remember the 4-H thrift program worked out in cooperation with the Savings Bond Division of the Treasury Department. The State director of the Savings Bond Division will be looking for an opportunity to plan with you about ways in which you can cooperate. He will also want to alert you to leaflets and other visual aids that are available in the interest of this effort.

ATTENTION TO SAFETY

Three things of current note:

1. The Safety Committee, at their September 23 meeting, revised the proposed Leaders' Manual. It looks good.
2. There will be a youth section of the Farm Safety Conference, of National Safety Congress, October 19-21. This is on an invitational basis to States.
3. Safety Guide for the Farm and Home, compiled by T. A. Erickson, has recently been reissued. More than a million copies have been distributed, making it the most popular booklet ever published by the donor organization.

ANOTHER FINE AID

"At Work With 4-H" is the title of a new booklet recently completed by the World Book Encyclopedia. It was authorized by the Extension Subcommittee on 4-H Club Work and the staff who prepared the booklet worked in complete harmony with this office.

Mr. T. T. Martin, retired State 4-H Club leader of Missouri, supervised the preparation and wrote the special message about 4-H Club work. We anticipate that copies will be mailed to you by the publishers.

NEW FILM "...TO HELP THEMSELVES"

We have previewed this film made in the interest of self-help and rehabilitation programs undertaken by CARE. It is extremely effective, although perhaps most usable with leader and older member audiences. The film would be available to you from any of the regional CARE offices. It is 16 mm. sound, black and white, and runs 28 minutes.

COOPERATION TO SHOW YOUTH ACTIVITIES

The Eastern States Exposition was a splendid demonstration of cooperation in its youth activities. The Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Future Farmers of America, and 4-H joined in the public information program of their respective activities.

The various New England States shared in the presentation of phases of 4-H Club work. Each State took the responsibility for 1 or 2 days of the Exposition. On the day that the State was in charge, it was represented by 30 or more 4-H Club members who manned the educational exhibits and gave interesting demonstrations.

SUMMARY OF RABBIT PROJECTS

Mr. Charles Kellogg, of the Agricultural Research Service staff, in the animal and poultry husbandry field, has summarized accomplishments with 4-H rabbit projects. This shows an upward trend of 5.5 percent of members completing the project as compared with 1952.

SHARING SOME OF THE GOOD IDEAS FROM THE STATES

There are many good ideas we'd like to share this time. First, A FEW OF GENERAL IMPORT:

GEORGIA - They talked about Youth and Farm Unit Approach.

Annual conference in Georgia carried a place for consideration of youth's part in the farm unit approach.

Georgia is now preparing for the dedication of Rock Eagle Camp, scheduled for October 30. This 4-H Club Center has been built with outstanding cooperation of members, leaders, and friends. The dedication program will be featured on the National Farm and Home Hour, Saturday, October 30.

MONTANA - Cooperation of Research and Extension.

"Narrowing the gap between research and application" will probably result for some 4-H'ers because of the fine series of experiment station tours, which were a part of the State 4-H Club Congress. The idea of the tours was suggested by one of the member-planners who helped set up Congress arrangements. Delegates could participate in any 4 of 11 scheduled tours. In every case, the research experts had done advance planning with the committee on ways that the research in that particular section could be visualized and localized for the delegates. No wonder it was so meaningful.

NEBRASKA - Keeping in touch.

The Extension staff makes a concerted effort to welcome 4-H members who register as freshmen at the agricultural college. A list of all such students is distributed at the State staff meeting--the result is a flood of notes, visits, and invitations to homes. Objectives are to help students and later interest them in the possibility of extension work. Group activities also supplement the personal contacts.

Here's another good follow-through in Nebraska. Have you heard about the Nebraska-Washington Club? Thirty-five former National Campers had a reunion in June as they did an enthusiastic send-off for the 1954 Camp delegates.

NEW JERSEY - State 4-H Club chorus, recruited from every county.

To this group will come the honor of opening the New Jersey Mid-Atlantic Farm Show next December 4. Two things are assured--they will sound good for they are being directed by William Dennis McMahon, concert artist and music critic; and they will also look good, for they will be attired in the traditional 4-H Club green and white. Their selections will include A Place in the Sun, written and dedicated to the 4-H Clubs of the Nation by Fred Waring.

Always, we're interested in doing a better job of TRAINING. Here are three recent examples:

MISSISSIPPI - Training for 4-H adult leaders.

First statewide 4-H Adult Leaders' Camp brought two men and two women adult 4-H leaders from each of Mississippi's 82 counties. Demonstrations and discussions by the leaders themselves on how to improve 4-H work brought thrilling challenge.

SOUTH DAKOTA - LEADERS' CAMP.

People or Program? - that's the challenge the leaders faced in the workshop sessions held at the State 4-H Club Camp. Election of officers of the State 4-H Leaders' Association also took place at this event.

TEXAS - Junior Leadership Training Lab.

Meeting together, working together, playing together--that is the pattern for the Junior Leadership Training Lab in Texas which is aimed at developing leadership qualities in 4-H Club members. It's an experience of about 120 young people and 50 adults working together. Dr. Glenn C. Dildine presented the major topic of study, The Role of the Junior Leader. Creative arts and nature study also came in for attention.

Examples of new TOOLS FOR THE JOB are listed below: So many States deserve congratulations about improved literature that we can only give you a brief look this time.

CALIFORNIA - Two new manuals

A new leaders' manual, issued in looseleaf style, is attracting attention because of its content and its good organization. They have also printed a new manual, You and 4-H Judging.

HAWAII - National 4-H Club Camp Report.

An attractive leaflet combines the reports of the four delegates to the National 4-H Club Camp and the Extension Service representative. Through this means, the many friends of 4-H, the leaders and members, can share the meaningful experiences of their delegates.

MASSACHUSETTS - Now in print.

Congratulations on a new tool, 4-H Club Agents' Guide, one of the first handbooks of this type that we have seen. It gives suggestions to the agent on such items as organization of 4-H work in Massachusetts, responsibilities of the agent, help available from the State office, use and training of local leaders, activities and events, and professional improvement of the staff member.

WISCONSIN - They make their own slide series with recording.

Nearing completion is a slide series on Youth Groups Aid in Community Development. Pictures from more than 25 counties illustrate group activities, and each story is told by youth representatives who served on a YMW panel before a group of young people meeting last May.

WYOMING - New projects for older members

"Group Living" is the title of a new project designed to meet the needs of older club members--whether town or rural, and whether they have had previous 4-H enrollment or not. The three units---outdoor fun, family fun, and fun with guests--can be taken in any sequence desired.

We note that some of the Wyoming home economics literature is aimed at appealing to boys as well as girls.

PENNSYLVANIA - NEW YORK - MARYLAND - NEW JERSEY - Mid-Atlantic States cooperate on literature.

"Home Mechanics" is the title of a joint series of leaflets being developed primarily to meet the need in suburban areas. This is an excellent demonstration of staff cooperation. Agricultural engineers, home management specialists, information specialists, and State 4-H Club leaders are working this out together.

It's that time again! From a number of different States, we could quote successful examples of CAMP EXPERIENCES GEARED TO STATE FAIR SETTING, with an opportunity to balance out some of the educational features.

KANSAS - State fair camp.

Educational tours, recreation, and sports events are a part of the encampment schedule in addition to exhibits, judging, demonstrations, dress revue, best-groomed-boy, and share-the-fun events.

INDIANA, COLORADO, IOWA, AND MINNESOTA have all worked out good ideas for fair camps.

MICHIGAN - 4-H show on East Lansing campus.

The participation of 2,000 members is somewhat of a record? In addition to recognizing member achievements, an honor award dinner was held for local club leaders who had served their youngsters for 10 to 30 years.

NORTH CAROLINA - Youth tell their story.

The State fair included 12 outstanding educational booths, planned and executed by 4-H'ers.

OREGON - Adopts the new plan of selling fat cattle on sealed bids.

Motivated by a desire to improve the educational features of its baby beef program, Oregon tried something new at the recent State fair. The usual auction was eliminated, and all calves were sold on sealed bids. Burton Hutton reports: "The champions did not bring quite so much per pound, but the overall average was not much different. The most interesting feature about the marketing this year was that we did not have one serious complaint from anyone about it."

DATES FOR YMW EVENTS - Much activity brewing.

- October 15-17 - Four-State Regional Conference for Ohio-West Virginia-Maryland-Virginia, to be held at State 4-H Club Camp, Jackson's Mill, W. Va.
- October 13-26 - Indiana reports schedule for a series of 10 district meetings, so listed as to give every county a chance to participate.
- October 15-17 - New England Young Men and Women's Conference, Festival House, Lenox, Mass. Theme: Spotlight on You - Youth in a Democracy.
- October 20-21 - Missouri and Kansas are talking about plans for the American Royal Rural Life Conference, where all interested young adults are invited. The Kansas City Chamber of Commerce is also helping to make plans for a "royal" welcome.
- December 1-4 - Young Farmers and Homemakers of Colorado are laying plans for a State event.

NEWS OF OUR COWORKERS:

We join the Division of Home Economics Programs in welcoming Dr. Starley M. Hunter. Dr. Hunter will strengthen Extension Service work in the areas of family economics and home management.

The death of Martin C. Altenburg, of North Dakota, is a tragic loss to the 4-H Club movement. Martin had been ill for an extended period.

Seven of the State leader group have recently reported for study leave assignments. These include Paul C. Barker, of California, Elizabeth Davies, of Wisconsin, Osgood Magnuson, of Minnesota, Paul J. Moore, of Montana, Boyd E. Wheeler, of Kentucky, Ashford O. Williams, of Louisiana, and Mary E. Woodward, of Michigan.

Back on the job are Glenn Marders of California, and John L. Stormont, of Hawaii, both of whom have been away on study leave.

While Paul Moore is at Cornell, Geraldine Fenn serves as acting State 4-H Club leader. While Elizabeth Davies is on leave, Lenore Landry will be serving in her place in Wisconsin. M. Amalie Vasold is reappointed as an assistant State 4-H Club leader in Michigan. A reappointment in Kansas is Charles Y. F. Hoyt as assistant State 4-H Club Leader. Mrs. Lucille M. Whipps is also reappointed as assistant State 4-H Club Leader in Kansas.

Recent appointments to State 4-H and YMW staff positions are Mrs. Marian L. Beebe, Mo.; James H. Shepherd, Idaho; Kenneth S. Olson, North Dakota; Robert F. Davis, Jr., California, Charles W. Martin, Nebraska; and Robert W. McCormick, Ohio.

Glenn T. Baird, of Utah, has been named supervisor of extension youth programs, replacing David Sharp, Jr., retired, who has plans for an overseas assignment after the New Year.

Frank Spurrier, recently retired from the California staff after 35 years' service, is enjoying travel in Europe.

Change of title now lists associate State 4-H Club agent for Martha E. Leighton and David B. Fales, of New York. Horace M. Jones, of Massachusetts, now has title of Head, Extension Division of Youth Work.

Minnesota loses the services of Kathleen S. Flom, but the Nation gains as Kathleen takes up duties with IFYE program phases at the National 4-H Club Foundation.

Hal Allen, one of last year's National 4-H Club Fellows, is a new and valuable addition to the staff of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

James Y. Shigeta, of Hawaii, has taken a year's leave of absence to assist associate Director Baron Goto on an important assignment with FOA in the Islands. Raymond E. Fort, assistant State club leader in Kansas, leaves for an overseas assignment.

Florence Walker, of New Jersey, who was in a serious automobile accident about a month ago, is now able to be back at the office.

In the last issue of Ideas, we listed Associate Director Henry M. Hansen, of Connecticut, as an appointee to both the Extension Subcommittee on 4-H Club Work and the National 4-H Club Foundation board of trustees. Only the former assignment is correct. Sorry to have given the wrong impression. Director L. R. Simons continues to fill a term on the foundation's board of trustees.

Sincerely yours,

E. W. Aiton, Director
Division of 4-H Club and YMW Programs
